Maryland 19th in Sears Directors' Cup

In final standings released by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA), the Terrapins' program was ranked tied for 19th out of 306 Division I schools last year. It is the highest finish for the Terps since the rankings began five years ago, and Maryland's 38-position jump from the No. 57 spot in 1994-95 is the greatest in that time by a school not previously ranked in the Top 25.

Kicks Against Breast Cancer

The second annual Kicks Against Breast Cancer Tournament, hosted in April by the University of Maryland, raised over $40,000 for the Claudia Mayer Cancer Resource and Imagery Center at Howard County General Hospital. The tournament honors Claudia Mayer, who did of breast cancer at the age of 47 in 1996.

Maryland, which completed the tournament with a 3-0-1 record, defeated George Mason, 2-1, in the championship game. The Terps defeated William and Mary, Navy and George Mason and were tied by Ohio State in their march to the crown. Of the 16 matches during the tournament, 10 were decided by one goal, four ended in draws and the margin of victory in the two remaining matches was two goals.

The eight participating teams included Maryland, Ohio State, William and Mary, Navy, George Mason, George Washington, Northwestern and Virginia.

The competing players helped reach the $40,000 goal with each team raising at least $500. Northwestern, which fell to William and Mary in the fifth place game, finished first in the fund raising category by generating $6,100 in pledges during a phone-a-thon held on its campus.

The Maryland State Youth Soccer Association played a key role in the event. MSYSA sponsored the tournament banquet and mobilized all of its resources to publicize the event. Maryland Soccer News was also a key media outlet in raising awareness for the tournament.

Many of the top celebrities in the women's soccer world made contributions to the success of the event. The U.S. National Team donated an autographed ball that was a big-ticket item at a silent auction. National team players Mia Hamm, Kristine Lilly, Debbie Keller and Michelle Akers contributed autographed uniforms, jerseys, shirts, books and posters that helped increase the total.

University of Maryland

Excellence In Education

There is no better place to be than the University of Maryland. As Washingtonian magazine noted in its December, 1997 issue, "...kids are turning down schools like Princeton and Virginia to go to College Park." With its top-ranked academic programs, nationally recognized faculty, diverse population and lush 1,580-acre campus located between Washington, D.C. and Baltimore, Md., it's no wonder the University of Maryland is a sought-after destination for some of the state's — and the country's — best and brightest students.

Attracting them are more than 100 majors and some of the highest-ranked programs in the country. For instance, in the 1998 U.S. News and World Report rankings of graduate schools, the Clark School of Engineering was ranked 13th in the nation, the School of Public Affairs was ranked 27th, and also was named one of the country's 25 best business schools for entrepreneurs by Success magazine. And, the university's School of Music was ranked 30th in the country in the first U.S. News and World Report reputational survey of arts programs since 1994.

The reputation of the School of Music promises to grow when the Maryland Center for the Performing Arts opens in 2000. With a 1,200-seat concert hall, a 300-seat recital hall, a 650-seat proscenium theater, a 200-seat dance studio and a 200-seat experimental theater with state-of-the-art lighting, acoustics and theatrical design elements, it will be an ideal home for university-based performing arts programs.

For exceptional students seeking an exceptional education at the University of Maryland, College Park, there are a number of programs designed to enrich the learning experience. Among them are the Honors Program, ranked among the nine best in the country by Ivy League Programs at State School Prices; College Park Scholars, which encourages students who share common intellectual interests to live and study together in 10 specialty areas; and the Gemstone Program, which links student teams from engineering, the humanities, business and the physical sciences in a four-year research project.

Supporting the research needs of students and faculty are some of the country's best research facilities. In 1994, the largest, most technically advanced research archives in the world — National Archives II — moved to College Park. In addition, just outside of College Park are the Library of Congress, the Smithsonian Institution and the National Libraries of Agriculture and Medicine, among others. The university itself has the most comprehensive library system in the area.

The University of Maryland, College Park, as the flagship campus of the state higher education system, is a vital part of Maryland's current prosperity and its vision for the future. For students here, the state offers a bounteous extension of the campus' own wealth of opportunity.

High tech, engineering and service industries thrive in proximity to the campus, offering a wide spectrum of internship and work-study opportunities that only a major metropolitan area can provide. The Kennedy Center alone houses the National Symphony Orchestra, five performance stages, an opera company, and the American Film Institute. In Baltimore, one of the great ports of the world, the Inner Harbor has become a cultural magnet for thousands of tourists each year, offering the National Aquarium, the Maryland Science Center, and other attractions.

Whether your focus is the sciences or the humanities, a small town atmosphere or a metropolitan feel, the University of Maryland, College Park offers a wide range of educational and cultural opportunities. There is no better place to be than the University of Maryland, College Park.

Dr. C. D. Mote, Jr., University President

Dr. Dan Mote was appointed 27th president of the University of Maryland June 2, 1998. He comes to Maryland from the University of California, Berkeley, where he was Vice Chancellor of University Relations, President of the UC Berkeley Foundation, and held an endowed chair in Mechanical Systems.

"The Regents could not be more pleased with this appointment," said Lance Billingsley, chairman of the University System of Maryland Board of Regents. "Dr. Mote brings to the University of Maryland the national stature, record of accomplishment, and leadership abilities to build on [former university president] Brit Kirwan's legacy and to propel this institution into the top tier of American research universities. A man of impeccable credentials, he is widely recognized for his ability to form strategic alliances between the academy and the community. I can think of no one better to take over the helm of our flagship university."

Mote, 61, was named to the vice chancellor's position and foundation presidency at California in 1991. In those capacities, he has been responsible for working with the university's external constituencies through a variety of programs, including fund raising, government relations, publications and public information. In 1992 he launched a comprehensive, campus-wide campaign to raise $1.1 billion in private support by the year 2000.

From 1987 to 1991, Mote served as chair of Berkeley's Department of Mechanical Engineering, leading the department to its No. 1 ranking in the National Research Council review of graduate program effectiveness. He came to Berkeley in 1967 after three years on the faculty of Carnegie Institute of Technology. He has held research positions at the University of Birmingham (England), the Norwegian Institute for Wood Science and Technology, the Technical University of Darmstadt, and the Tokyo Institute of Technology.

His technical expertise is in the areas of dynamic systems, instrumentation, vibration, and biomechanics. He is internationally recognized for his research on gyroscopic systems and also the biomechanics of skiing injury. His research work has yielded 300 publications as well as patents in the U.S., Norway, Finland and Sweden.

He is a registered professional engineer in California and has served professional societies in a number of capacities. He was Vice President of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers (Environment and Transportation Group) from 1986-90 and Vice Chairman of the ASME Council on Engineering in 1989-90. He was the founding chair of the ASME Noise Control and Acoustics Division and served from its inception in 1979 until 1983.

Among his numerous honors, Mote has received research fellowships from the National Science Foundation and from the Royal Norwegian Council for Scientific and Industrial Research. In 1971 the University of California, Berkeley gave him its Distinguished Teacher Award. In 1988 he was elected to the National Academy of Engineering in the U.S. and was awarded the Humboldt Prize by the Federal Republic of Germany. In 1997 Mote was chosen Honorary Member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the highest award bestowed by this society, for exemplary accomplishments in the course of his career.

Mote holds B.S. and M.S. degrees in mechanical engineering and a Ph.D. in engineering mechanics, all from the University of California, Berkeley.

Maryland Terrapins

Among the Nation's Best

This is Maryland Athletics

At the University of Maryland, winning is not taken lightly. Like the rich history of all its sports programs, championships are a tradition.

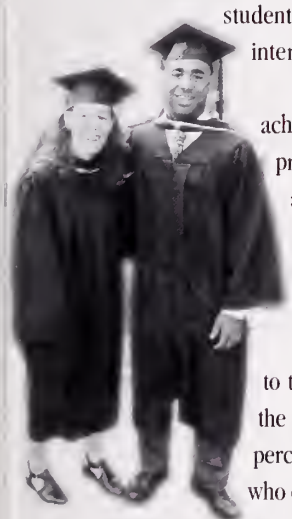
Since the 1950s, Maryland has established itself as one of the most successful athletic programs in the nation. This type of success is no accident; it has been built year-by-year on the achievements of outstanding young men and women who were given the opportunity to excel both on and off the field of play. The victories, the championships and the national acclaim are all ingredients of the Maryland athletic program. Student-athletes who attend Maryland are part of a program and a university which thrive on tradition and excellence.

Athletic Success

National championships, conference championships, national rankings and postseason play are all a part of the University of Maryland experience. The University of Maryland has established itself as one of the nation's elite athletic programs. The Terrapins have won 13 national championships, including a record four consecutive by the women's lacrosse team. The Terrapins had plenty of reason to celebrate when it came to intercollegiate athletics in 1997-98, as they posted their highest finish ever (No. 19) in the national Sears Directors' Cup all-sports ranking. Its 38-position jump from the No. 57 spot in 1994-95 is the greatest in that time by a school not previously ranked in the top 25.

Academic Excellence

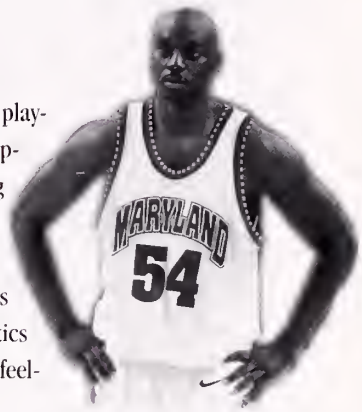
The University of Maryland considers intercollegiate athletics an integral part of the collegiate experience. Its existence provides an opportunity for students, faculty, alumni and students to share in the life of intercollegiate athletics.



The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to achieve the same standards of excellence in its athletic program as exist within the university's teaching, research and public service programs. The department embraces the concept that the student-athlete is first and foremost a student, possessing academic abilities, personal interests and ambitions comparable to those of the other members of the student body. Since 1983, 88 percent of freshmen scholarship athletes who completed their eligibility at the University of Maryland earned their degrees.

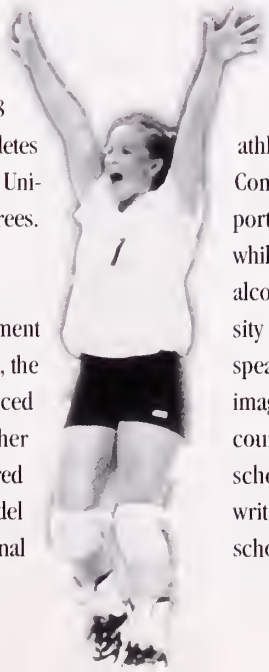
Competition

Wearing the Maryland uniform means playing in front of some of the loudest and most supportive fans in the nation. It means playing against the best teams in the country, in the most prestigious conference in the country, the ACC. It means wearing the school colors with pride. It means doing your best in athletics and academics. It is a unique and special feeling being a Terrapin.



Goals

The great thing about being a Terrapin is the commitment to hard work and dedication. At the University of Maryland, the athletic department is dedicated to supporting a well-balanced Division I program. Athletic Director Deborah A. Yow and her dedicated coaches, administrators and staff have re-engineered the department into a responsive and financially sound model — with a clear vision and a determined drive toward national prominence.



Athletes in the Community

From the media spotlight to the community spotlight, Terrapin student-athletes strengthen the ties of the local community by serving as role models. Community service is a key part of the Terrapins' agenda. Student-athletes support many community programs which help to enrich the lives of Maryland youth while teaching the importance of studying hard and saying "no" to drugs and alcohol. Representatives from the University of Maryland athletic department speak to participants and use their image and the appeal of sports to encourage Maryland children to stay in school, improve their reading and writing skills, and to receive their high school diplomas.

Deborah A. Yow, Director of Athletics

The University of Maryland athletic department has made remarkable progress under the leadership of Deborah A. Yow over the past four years. Budgets are now balanced and the inherited operating debt of almost $7 million has been paid in full. There is a spirit of excitement and pride at Maryland and the department has a clear vision for its future.

In her inspiring first meeting with the staff, shortly after she was named A.D. in the summer of 1994, she challenged the Terrapin athletic department to "raise our sights and sharpen our tools...to work hard and work smart...to recognize that our only limitations are those which we place upon ourselves."

Yow has rallied the department toward the achievement of five strategic goals:

1) Generate significantly higher revenues with increased corporate sponsorships, aggressive marketing and more effective fund-raising;

2) Boost the graduation rate of Terrapin athletes to a level equal to the general student body;

3) Raise the level of competitive achievement nationally and in the Atlantic Coast Conference, while carefully complying with ACC and NCAA rules;

4) Develop a streamlined, highly efficient athletics organization;

5) Provide outstanding customer service.

In achieving most of these goals over her first four years as athletic director, Yow and her dedicated coaches, administrators and staff have re-engineered the department from a debt-ridden, under-achieving organization to a responsive and financially sound model — with a clear vision and a determined drive toward national prominence. Maryland now ranks in the top 10 percent of all NCAA Division I programs competitively across all sports, is competing effectively in the ACC, and set an enviable record of 154 All-ACC academic honor roll student-athletes. Corporate sponsorship revenues are up 265 percent and annual fund-raising for scholarships has increased 60 percent. Maryland is a remarkably improved athletic program.

In 1997, Yow formed the employee "Committee on Quality in the Workplace" to recommend initiatives to improve working conditions and to design programs to recognize the value of athletic department employees. This has proved to be a wonderful tool in recognizing the worth of the university's outstanding employees across the department. There is a compelling sense that the Terrapin athletic department is a family, with a common goal and a shared purpose.

Maryland's athletic director recently observed, "We have the finest coaches, support staff, and administrative team in America. It is because of their courage, hard work, and cooperation that we now have a strong, viable athletic program. I am immensely proud of each of them. I am equally proud of our Terrapin fans who buy tickets and our Terrapin Club members who faithfully support the Maryland athletic program with their donations for scholarships, and the Maryland Educational Foundation and M Club members who serve and give liberally. We have a great Terrapin family. That's the foundation for all our successes...and the basis for our bright future."

Regarding the many achievements of the Terrapin athletic program, Yow says, "We are pleased, but we are not satisfied...our vision is to be one of the top 10 programs in the nation consistently...we see no reason to settle for less." Yow, who is a member of the NCAA Management Council and other prestigious national groups, is known for her goal-oriented and proactive management style. She consistently inspires and expects maximum effort from herself and those around her. Her words set the tone for everyone in athletics: "Winning isn't everything, but the will to win is." She points out that this applies in the classroom, on the field of competition, and in life.

A former basketball coach, Yow was the first male or female at the Division I level to lead three schools (Kentucky, Oral Roberts, Florida) to their first-ever appearances in the national Top 25. Her previous significant administrative experience came at the University of Florida and the University of North Carolina-Greensboro and as a pioneer female athletic director at Saint Louis University (1990-94).

The Maryland athletic department staff is working as a focused, talented and determined team under the dynamic leadership of Dr. Deborah A. Yow and is realizing steady and remarkable progress across all areas, with the best yet to come.

With a clear vision and with high aspirations for Maryland athletics, the Terps prepare to enter the new century on a dramatic upward thrust. The athletics staff embraces this prospect, with gratitude for its successes and with renewed determination to further enhance the program's national stature. It has the skill and determined leadership to reach its lofty goals, as a part of this great university. And it will.

Yow Elected 2nd VP of NACDA

Deborah A. Yow was elected second vice president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics this past June and is scheduled to assume the organization's presidency in July 2000. Her term as second vice-president began July 1. Now in its 33rd year, NACDA serves as the professional and educational association for more than 5,100 college athletic directors, associates, assistants and conference commissioners at more than 1,600 institutions throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico. Yow is the second woman to serve as an officer of NACDA (Barbara Hedges, athletic director at the University of Washington, held office from 1994-97).

Academic Support & Career Development

The University of Maryland considers intercollegiate athletics an integral part of the collegiate experience. Its existence provides an opportunity for students, faculty, alumni and students to share in the life of intercollegiate athletics.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to achieve the same standards of excellence in its athletics program as exist within the university's teaching, research and public service programs. The department embraces the concept that the student-athlete is first and foremost a student, possessing academic abilities, personal interests and ambitions comparable to those of the other members of the student body.

The mission of the Academic Support and Career Development Unit, headed by assistant athletic director Demetrius Marlowe, is to provide quality developmental programs and need-based services that will enhance the academic progress, facilitate the career development, and encourage the psychosocial growth of every student-athlete.

MAPS Directory

This directory, produced annually by the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, is intended to assist graduating Terrapin student-athletes as they begin their professional careers. Distributed to more than 1,000 corporations and businesses around the region, prospective employers are introduced to our graduating student-athletes with a photograph and resume information relative to academic, career and personal achievements.

Terp Choices

Terp Choices is a program designed to guide student-athletes by orienting, supporting and increasing awareness of the relevant issues pertaining to student-athletes in today's world. The focus of the program is making personal choices and how they may affect an entire team, not just a single individual. Education and interactive workshops are presented to the athletic team and are led by student educators.

Career Information Fairs

Career Awareness in Academic Support is expanding to include a variety of programs which will be offered for student-athletes throughout the semester. Career awareness will be an ongoing process and will include assistance with resume writing and interview skills. The end of the semester will bring a career awareness fair which will host a number of professionals with whom student-athletes can learn about career interests and planning. Unlike typical "job fairs," the purpose of this program is to allow student-athletes to explore multiple career opportunities by speaking directly to individuals in their chosen area of interest.

Team Maryland

Team Maryland is a class taught in conjunction with the campus' Center for Political Leadership in which student-athletes are exposed to leadership and public speaking skills and techniques. The program consists of a group of volunteer student-athletes who learn about the challenges for children in the community by speaking to different elementary schools about drug abuse and the importance of education.

In conjunction with the campus' Center for Political Leadership, participants are taught leadership skills and public speaking techniques to use in their school-based presentation. In addition to school visits, Team Maryland has hosted visits from local schools to our campus.

Strength & Conditioning Program

Corliss White, Strength & Conditioning

Collegiate soccer has evolved to the point where total physical preparation is necessary to successfully compete on the Division I level. It has become extremely important to strength and conditioning coach Corliss White that all of the Terrapin women's soccer players are prepared through off-field training to maximize their athletic development in terms of strength and conditioning. The high level of dedication by the members of the women's soccer team has brought about spectacular achievements in the weight room as well as on the soccer field.

The objective of the strength and conditioning program for women's soccer is based on the enhancement of performance as well as the prevention of injuries. White makes every attempt to accommodate the different training needs of each individual athlete.

The preparation of a student-athlete to compete in soccer goes beyond strength and power training in the weight room. Speed improvement, flexibility, plyometrics, nutrition, agility and conditioning are also important ingredients in the off-field preparation of the women's soccer team here at Maryland. The strength and conditioning staff puts a great emphasis on improving the speed of the Terps through increased mechanical efficiency and the improvement of acceleration of maximum velocity.

Terps Shooting Toward Breakthrough Year

ACC Finalists Look for School-Record Fourth Consecutive NCAA Berth

A smile comes to Terrapin head coach Alan Kirkup's face when he studies the roster of the Maryland women's soccer team for the 1998 season. At quick glance, Kirkup sees seven seniors among nine returning starters, a starting defense that returns intact, and the highest scoring front-line duo in school history. As Kirkup readies his squad to play one of the nation's toughest schedules, the third-year Maryland head coach is preparing the Terps to play longer into the season than any other team in school history.

The return of 18 letterwinners, including four of the top six goal scorers, off of last year's Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament finalists, plus a solid recruiting class, has anticipation for the 1998 season at an all-time high. The Terps have played in the ACC championship game in two of the last three seasons and are aiming for their school-record fourth consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance. In two of the last three seasons, Maryland has come within one win of advancing to the women's soccer championship weekend.

Maryland's senior class, which has been instrumental in the rise of the program to national prominence, will need to continue its extraordinary play if the Terps plan to be in the national championship picture this season. The senior class – forwards Emmy Harbo and Keri Sarver, midfielders Robin McCullough and Wendy Baldwin, defenders Abby Bausman, Laura Varela and Tiffany Keyes – is the winningest in school history, and would like nothing more than to cap off their careers by playing on the final weekend of the NCAA Tournament.

Maryland's continued success, both in the ACC and nationally, will depend heavily on its traditionally strong offense. The Terps ranked second in the ACC in goals scored (51) last season and have averaged nearly 2.5 goals per game in the last three seasons. Harbo and Sarver, who are the highest scoring offensive duo in school history, hope to enjoy the strongest season of their careers.

A solid year of maturity in 1997 for the Terps' midfield should serve as a launching pad in making it a strong unit in 1998. The unit will be led by McCullough, a two-time All-ACC selection, and juniors Lindsay Basalyga, Jackie Mynarski and Julie Nelson. Each player in the starting midfield played in at least 20 games last season and give the Terps the speed and quickness demanded of the Maryland midfielders.

Maryland's defense, which ranked third in the ACC with seven shutouts in 1997, returns its four back line starters and should be improved over its strong showing last season. The Terps' back line will combine the talents of junior Emily Janss, a second team All-ACC and ACC all-tournament selection in 1997, with the familiar faces of Bausman, Varela and Keyes in forming what will easily be one of the stingiest defenses in College Park in many years. Janss, Bausman and Varela have missed only one game between them in the last two seasons, while Keyes returns fully healed from knee surgery.

The goalkeeping tandem of sophomores Riki-Ann Serrins and Ali Wolff will split the starting chores in 1998 as they did in 1997. Serins and Wolff performed well as freshmen and improved in every facet of their play during a demanding spring training schedule.

Maryland's recruiting class will have the chance to make immediate contributions at every position. Kirkup sees the additions of Courtney Beirne and Carrie Klotz adding depth to an already strong front line. Junior Courtney Martinez, a member of Maryland's national championship women's lacrosse team, will have an impact in the midfield and Debbie Lieberman will add depth to the strong defense.

Forwards

Together, Harbo and Sarver will be one of the most explosive offensive duos in college soccer this season. They enter the 1998 season ranked first and second in every offensive category in school history and have ranked first and second in scoring in both of the last two seasons. They have combined for 84 goals and 209 total points in the last three years. Harbo and Sarver have teamed up for goals 21 times during the first three years of their careers.

Alone, Harbo and Sarver are masterful offensive weapons. With 44 and 40 goals, respectively, and 16 and 26 assists, respectively, they have displayed their abilities to score often and against the nation's toughest competition.

Harbo is an All-America candidate who is considered by many to be one of the most dangerous strikers in the nation. She is the Terps' all-time leading goal scorer (44) and is second in school history in total points (104). Harbo was a first team All-ACC selection in 1996 when she scored a school record 21 goals. Harbo's ability to control the ball in traffic and get shots off in just about any situation make her a constant threat whenever she is in the box.

Sarver is another player whose play will warrant strong

All-America candidate Keri Sarver looks to add to her school-record point total.

All-America consideration. A team co-captain, Sarver ranks first in school history with 106 total points. She is the all-time school leader with 26 assists and ranks second all-time in goals scored with 40. She was a second-team All-ACC selection and an ACC all-tournament team choice last season. Sarver led the team with 14 goals in 1997. She also added eight assists for 36 total points. Sarver's ability to get into the open field and outrace defenders makes her a very special offensive player. She also has the ability to score with either foot making her doubly dangerous.

Newcomers Courtney Beirne and Carrie Klotz are expected to solidify an already powerful position for the Terps. Both possess excellent field vision and play well with the ball at their feet.

Midfielders

Maryland will be experienced in the midfield, with a senior and three juniors expected to form one of the top units in the ACC.

McCullough, an attacking midfielder, who can also play as a front runner, was the Terps' third-leading scorer in 1997. She is one of the more active players on the Terps' roster and often finds herself in position to score goals. One needs to look only at her eight goals and six assists last season to find examples of her offensive abilities. McCullough has been one of the strongest players in the program since her freshman season. She is one of only two players in school history to have been selected All-ACC more than once during her career.

Juniors Lindsay Basalyga and Jackie Mynarski will also play in the midfield. Basalyga, who played in 22 games while starting 14 as a sophomore, scored two goals including the game-winner against Florida State. She is a solid player who possesses the ball well and uses her speed to take the flow of the game to the outside flanks. Mynarski scored five goals while playing in all 24 games last season. Her strength is her greatest asset and gives her the ability to anchor the midfield. She has displayed her offensive abilities with eight goals and 19 total points in her two years at Maryland.

Season Outlook

1998 Maryland Women's Soccer

All-America candidate Emmy Harbo enters the season as Maryland's all-time leading goal scorer.

Nelson returns for her third season to hold down the duties at defensive midfield. Nelson is a strong athlete who has the ability to control the tempo of a game with her quickness in getting to the ball. Nelson should be one of the top defensive midfielders in the conference this season, allowing the Terps to be offensive-minded throughout the remainder of the midfield positions.

The Terps will be deep at the midfield position with capable athletes ready to step in at any time. Sophomores Vita McKenna, Terri Greer and Tina Lacertosa gained valuable playing experience last season. Courtney Martinez will bring added collegiate experience, though this will be her first season on the soccer field for the Terps. McKenna (19 games) and Greer (21 games) saw considerable playing time last season, and that experience will allow them to step into any given situation.

Back Line

Maryland's back line play has traditionally been a strength for the Terps and this season will be no exception. The Terps return all four starters from last season, and after a full year of playing together, look to be one of the strongest defenses in recent memory. Maryland enjoyed four shutout victories against ranked teams last season and held its opponent to one one goal or less in 14 games.

Junior Emily Janss returns as a starter for the third consecutive season. She was one of only two defenders in the league to earn both All-ACC and ACC all-tournament honors last season. Janss will see the majority of the available minutes playing at center back. She has started 50 consecutive games and has 15 total points during her career. Her outstanding play in the ACC Tournament helped the Terps hold both offensive-minded Duke and NC State to one goal each.

Seniors Abby Bausman and Laura Varela will flank Janss as defensive mainstays. Bausman (48 games in the last two seasons) and Varela (45 games in the last two seasons) have played exceedingly well down the stretch in the last two years and are major reasons why the Terps are looking toward playing in their fourth consecutive NCAA Tournament. In addition to playing strong defense, the pair have demonstrated solid offensive skills during their careers. Bausman scored two goals last season, including the game-winner against James Madison, and Varela has been credited with three assists in each of the last two seasons.

Keyes returns to the field after missing the entire 1997 season and half of the 1996 season with a knee injury. She was a starting defender in the first 11 games of the 1996 season when the Terps went undefeated and allowed only three goals. Her return to the backfield will be welcomed by her teammates and feared by her opponents.

Sophomore Terri Greer and freshman Debbie Lieberman will provide the depth of the back line. Greer appeared in 21 games (while starting five) as a freshman and gained the experience needed to be helpful in the Terps' defensive scheme. Lieberman possesses strong credentials and will look to add depth to the position.

Riki-Ann Serrins and Ali Wolff return for their second seasons defending the Terps' goal. Serrins and Wolff split time last season with the platoon system working well. Serrins appeared in 12 games while Wolff made 16 appearances.

Serrins recorded two shutouts and recorded a career-high 10 saves in an overtime victory over No. 19 ranked Dartmouth. She was the Terps' starter in the ACC championship game against North Carolina.

Wolff started 14 games and recorded five shutouts last season. Her five shutouts and 65 saves already place her fifth in both categories on Maryland's career charts. She recorded a career-high 14 saves in her first career appearance.

Senior defender Abby Bausman will be a key on the Terps' back line.

The Golden Connection

Seniors Emmy Harbo and Keri Sarver are the highest scoring duo in school history. Harbo and Sarver have teamed up 21 times during their three-year careers. The Terps have only lost once in the last three seasons when Harbo is on the scoring end of a Sarver assist or Sarver is on the scoring end of a Harbo assist.

Alan Kirkup, Head Coach

3rd Season at Maryland • 13th Season Overall • Loughborough, '81

Alan Kirkup, who is in his third season at the University of Maryland, has directed the Terps to a pair of NCAA Tournament appearances in his two seasons in College Park. In 1996 he led the Terps to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Tournament and in 1997 the Terps were the No. 8 seed in the NCAA Tournament.

Kirkup is the seventh winningest active coach in Division I women's soccer. He has a career record of 179-67-12 (.717) and has directed six of his last eight teams into the NCAA Tournament. In 1995 he led SMU to the semifinals of the NCAA Tournament and a final national ranking of No. 3.

Kirkup was named the 1989 National Soccer Coaches Association of America Central Region Coach of the Year.

Kirkup's teams average nearly 15 victories a year and annually play among the toughest schedules in the nation. Each of his 12 teams has won at least 10 games, with his 1996 Maryland team winning a school record 19 games. During his career, three of his teams have won at least 80 percent of their games and all but three have won more than 60 percent of their games.

In his first season at Maryland, the Terps established school records for wins in a season (19), winning percentage (.769) and wins to begin a season (14). The Terps capped the season by advancing to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Tournament. Both of his first two Maryland teams have ranked among the nation's elite — the 1997 Terps earned a final ranking of No. 13 and the 1996 team was ranked No. 9 at the conclusion of the season. The Terps' 1997 schedule was ranked as the toughest in the nation by the Sagarin Ratings.

Kirkup played for the world famous Manchester United Football Club in his native England from 1973-1976. He then played and was an administrator for the Loughborough University Club from 1977-1981. He captained Loughborough to the English University finals in 1978 and 1980.

Kirkup gained his first taste of soccer in the United States as a graduate assistant coach under Schellas Hyndman at Eastern Illinois in 1981. The Panthers advanced to the semifinals of the NCAA Tournament in only their first year of Division I competition that season. Hyndman would hire Kirkup again in 1985, but this time as assistant men's coach at Southern Methodist. The following year, Kirkup became the head coach of the first women's team at SMU. He continued to work with the men's team until 1988 before concentrating full-time on the women's team.

While at SMU, his 1995 team established the school record for victories in a season (23) and advanced to the semifinals of the NCAA Tournament in 1995. He took the SMU program to the NCAA Tournament in only its fifth year of existence and took four of his 10 teams to postseason play.

In between his coaching stints at Eastern Illinois and SMU, he served as the high school boys coach at the Netherall School in Cambridge, England from 1982-1984.

Kirkup earned his bachelor's degree from Loughborough in 1981 and his master's degree from Eastern Illinois in 1982. Question & Answer Session with Coach Kirkup

Q: How did your great passion for soccer come about?

A: I have been involved with soccer ever since I can remember. It is a sport that I have always been around. My father played professionally in England and I can remember watching him play while I was a young boy. Most of what I learned at an early age was through simply playing the game. I gained my love for the game then and have come to respect the game and have a tremendous passion for the game.

Q: How did you develop your coaching philosophy?

A: My coaching philosophy has developed over a number of years and I am still learning. Take the World Cup that was played this past summer, for example. I was able to go to France and watch what the teams who play at that level are doing. It was entertaining to watch the Brazilians and the Dutch play. It was a lot of fun to watch the French take on everybody and win the World Cup. To watch and study the organization of the Germans and the Croats was a tremendous learning experience. There was a great free kick that the Argentinians ran against England that I imagine we might well be using this year, too! The great thing about coaching philosophies and ideas is that they are always being refined and developed.

Q: What is your coaching/teaching style?

A: When you talk about coaching and teaching, I feel that I am very much a teacher. Something that we stress to our players and recruits is that we want them to be better players after four years of playing soccer at the University of Maryland. We want them to develop as soccer players over that period of time. In order to help our players improve, we have to be able to teach the game. I think that is my greatest strength as a coach. Even though they might be great players when they arrive here, there is always something new that you can learn. We feel that teaching is a big part of our coaching philosophy here at Maryland. Our style of coaching permits the members of our team to develop as players and not survive with what they inherently have. We want them to learn the game on a continuous basis.

Q: What or who has been your biggest influence?

A: My greatest influence — my first real influence — was my father. After he showed me how to kick a ball, Frank Bluntstone, who was the youth team coach at Manchester United, really taught me how to play the game and what was expected of me. Schellas Hyndman at Eastern Illinois and SMU was someone I learned a great deal from. I still use a lot of his ideas.

Q: What is it like to coach in the ACC?

A: Coaching in the ACC is a wonderful experience. The ACC is undoubtedly the best conference in the country. Any player who comes to play in this conference knows that every game is a battle. Every time you play against an ACC team there is a chance of either team winning. We hope to continue that tradition this season at Maryland. We hope to continue to be competitive in the ACC after losing in the tournament championship game last season. We would like to take our program to the next level in the ACC. Recruits that join our program will have the chance to play with and against the best players in the country. When you come here you know that you will be playing in the toughest conference in the country and that our schedule will be among the toughest anywhere.

Q: What do you like about coaching women's college soccer?

A: The reason I coach is to win a national championship. I know that we can win a national championship at Maryland. We have put together a squad of players this season that is very capable of doing some great things in the ACC and nationally. If we can stay healthy and continue to play the way we have played this spring, we can play some very sophisticated soccer. It was nice to see our learning curve continue through the spring. We have the ability to retain what we have learned, continue to learn and do very well this fall.

Q: What has been your biggest moment is soccer?

A: One of my biggest moments in soccer came the day I took the job here at Maryland. It was always my ambition to coach in the ACC, and to be able to be involved in a program that is so serious about winning a national championship. I think another of my big moments was my first win when we took the team to Hawaii where we managed to win our first game. That was a very big moment for me, over and above getting to the Final Four when I was at SMU. I am also proud of the fact that over 95 percent of the student-athletes that I have coached have gone on to get their degrees and many of them have continued to be involved in the sport of soccer -- those things are just as important. I think though, that my biggest moment is ahead of me and I want it to happen at Maryland.

Q: What makes the Maryland program so attractive?

A: The fact that we have good people in our program is paramount. While we want to be competitive nationally, we also realize that academics and a social life are important for a well-rounded college experience. The people that make up our team understand this and we hope that they continue to be successful in their post-collegiate careers, not jut while they are with us at Maryland. We want to win a national championship, but we also realize that life is a journey. Our players' collegiate experience is a few small (albeit important) steps along their road. Come and watch us play, we think you'll enjoy the experience.

Season Recap

Head coach Alan Kirkup, in his second season at Maryland, led the Terps to the NCAA Tournament for the second consecutive season and into the championship game of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament for the second time in the last three seasons. The Terps finished with a final national ranking of No. 13 by Soccer America Magazine and won a school-record tying four ACC games during the regular season.

Forward Keri Sarver, midfielder Robin McCullough and defender Emily Janss earned second team All-ACC honors while Sarver, Janss and defender Abby Bausman were named to the ACC all-tournament team. It marked the second consecutive season that Sarver and McCullough had earned All-ACC honors and the first of many future honors for Janss and Bausman.

Maryland won five of its first six games, a string that included victories over Wake Forest and Penn to claim the championship of the inaugural Maryland/Puma Tournament. Victories during the first three weeks of the season came against No. 13 ranked James Madison, No. 12 ranked George Mason and the No. 15 ranked Demon Deacons. Maryland lost only once during the month of September and was ranked eighth in the nation entering October. That ranking proved to be its highest of the season.

The Terps closed the regular season on an upswing, winning three of their five games before the ACC Tournament. The team defeated Navy, No. 18 ranked Penn State and NC State. Their strong finish allowed them to enter the ACC tournament as the No. 3 seed.

In the ACC tournament, the Terps advanced past NC State via penalty kicks in the quarterfinals and defeated eighth ranked Duke, 2-1, in the semifinals. Maryland then ran into North Carolina, the eventual NCAA champion in the final game, losing 4-0. It marked the second time in the last three seasons that the Terps had played in the ACC championship game.

The Terps were selected to play in the NCAA Tournament for the school-record third consecutive season where they lost to George Mason. Maryland entered the tournament seeded eighth and was one of eight teams seeded in the entire tournament.

During the season, seven of the Terps' nine losses came against teams ranked in the nation's top 10. Following the season, the Terps were judged to have played the nation's toughest schedule.

Ludwig Field, Home of the Terps

Because of the expanding horizon of Terrapin soccer and the growing interest in its achievement on the field, the most extensive facility enhancement in Maryland soccer history was undertaken in 1995. The result: the state-of-the-art Ludwig Soccer Field.

Built at a cost of $2.5 million, the facility's quality now matches the quality of the soccer program. Ludwig Field, officially dedicated on September 16, 1995, is surely a cornerstone of college soccer throughout the nation.

The 1,500-seat facility is an integral part of the more than $40 million of new construction for Maryland athletics. The complex is fully lighted with an all-weather track and a sodded Bermuda grass playing field.

The permanent lights allow for commonly scheduled night games. The lights also allow Maryland the ability to host NCAA and Atlantic Coast Conference tournaments, high-caliber in-season tournaments and nationally-televised games.

The complex was also constructed with the local soccer fan very much in mind. The field is located directly adjacent to Parking Lot 1 and close to the University Boulevard entrance.

The facility is named after lifetime Terrapin friends Bob and Louise Ludwig.

Ludwig Field was packed for the Terps' game against North Carolina on Oct. 10, 1997 when a team-record 4,380 came out for the ACC battle.
